Presidential Vote Drives Show Heat

Dewey Invades Truman's State

EN ROUTE WITH DEWEY — (UP) — Gov. Thomas E. Dewey today carried his "good government" campaign into Missouri, home state of his Democratic opponent, President Truman.

The GOP candidate will deliver the second of three major speeches of his current campaign swing tonight in Kansas City at 10 p. m.

Dewey scheduled stops at Joplin, Carthage, Monett and Springfield before he reaches Kansas City in the late afternoon.

As Dewey's special campaign train approached the heart of Mr. Truman's home territory, the New York governor's staff promised that the Kansas City speech would describe Dewey's ideas on "the essentials of good government."

WILL CITE AIMS

"He will promise to bring to Washington a government that believes wholeheartedly in the American system of freedom, that knows where it is going; that practices teamwork; that has integrity; that is competent; and that has vision and faith and courage," a statement said.

Barren of details as it was, the statement was an accurate reflection of Dewey campaign tactics. The GOP candidate is thoroughly convinced that he is a winner, and consequently he is "freezing the ball" when it comes to the current campaign fight.

Dewey's advisers felt that Truman presented the Republicans with a silver-plated campaign issue when he had to abandon his plan to send Chief Justice Fred M. Vinson to Moscow as a unilateral peace envoy.

CONCENTRATES ON SENATE

For several days afterward, as he stumped from Pennsylvania through Oklahoma, Dewey talked to the point of Truman's "mission to Moscow" plan and promised that his administration would never "cut the ground from under" its diplomats involved in foreign negotiations.

But now Dewey seems to be concentrating on efforts to keep the Senate under GOP control and emphasizing that he plans to give the federal government "competence" which he claims the Truman administration lacks.

As he moved into Missouri, Dewey hoped to insure reelection of a GOP congress. Missouri now has four Democratic members of the House and nine Republicans. Dewey will do all in his power to preserve that margin for his party.

Missouri also has 15 electoral votes which Dewey would like very much to see in his column on election night. The state went Democratic in 1944 by a narrow margin and the Republicans feel this year that they have the best chance in a long time to upset the Democratic party.

Truman Blasts 'Me Too' Claims

EN ROUTE WITH TRUMAN — (UP) — President Truman put his fight with Gov. Thomas E. Dewey on a bare-knuckle basis today, charging that the GOP White House candidate is a risky "me too" convert to bipartisan foreign policy.

The President hurled the charge in a speech at St. Paul last night in which he discarded Dewey's "unity" campaign as a bunch of "catch phrases" and "mealy-mouthed political speeches."

Then he headed southward for another run across Minnesota and Wisconsin to wind up tonight with another major speech in Milwaukee.

Enroute to Milwaukee, the President scheduled brief appearances at Mankato, Rochester and Winona in Minnesota and Sparta, Madison and Waukesha, in Wisconsin.

GROWS HOTTER

The St. Paul speech, the most caustic Mr. Truman has delivered so far, reflected the increasing tempo of his campaign as the Nov. 2 election draws near.

Although Dewey has endorsed and participated in the bipartisan foreign policy, the President did not hesitate to throw barbs at him on the issue.

Picking up the "unity" theme of the Dewey campaign, the President declared that there was no unity on matters related to foreign policy in 1944 when the country was at war and the New York governor was running against the late President Roosevelt.

BLASTS POLICY

"During the election campaign in that year," he said, "the Republican candidate, who is now running once more, charged again and again that it was the administration's arbitrary desire to keep men in the Army after the war was over.

"He had so little foresight about postwar problems that he felt we could completely demobilize our military strength the minute that hostilities ended. Now, as a matter of hindsight, he says 'me too' about building up our armed forces."

Such unity as we have achieved on foreign policy was the work of Republicans and Democrats who were willing to fight for principles "before these principles became obvious to everyone," he said.

Dems Stage Big Rally Tomorrow

Richland county Democrats will fire their first major barrage of the local political campaign when Senator Scott W. Lucas of Illinois, addresses a major rally here Friday night.

The rally, starting at 8 p. m. will be held in John Simpson auditorium. Marshall C. Moore, Democratic central committee chairman, predicted an attendance of 1,000 or more persons. Local Democratic candidates will be introduced. There will be a speaker on behalf of the local ticket.

Attorney Robert W. Levering of Mt. Vernon, a survivor of the Death March of Bataan, will address the crowd. He seeks to represent this district in Congress.

State Auditor Joseph T. Ferguson will speak on behalf of the state Democratic ticket.

Finefrock Praises Report

Board Chairman Emphasizes Need

The Richland County Child Welfare board has been handicapped by lack of funds, but the board is going to insist that funds be provided for adequate child care, John H. Finefrock, board chairman, said today.

"We are going to insist that funds be provided as long as I'm chairman," Finefrock said.

The board was criticized by the state welfare department in a report of a survey of child care activities in the county.

"I'm not blaming anyone for conditions as they are, but I'm accepting responsibility for the program," Finefrock said today.

He said he had found the report "very complete" and felt it would be helpful in the work of the board. "It gives the community and the board a perspective as to the tremendous load that has to be carried by the board," Finefrock said.

BOARD OVERLOOKED

He said that up to this time the board has not been accepted as a primary agency. He pointed out that the County Children's Services act, passed in 1945, charges the board with full responsibility for child welfare in the county.

Finefrock added that in the past some agencies have not turned over cases to the board that they should have, and that as a result the board has not had the opportunity to learn of needy cases.

He said the board needed more money to enlarge its program and to hire more trained case workers.

Finefrock said he felt the county commissioners, who are responsible for providing the funds have never been sold on the "larger program" of the child welfare board.

He said that there has not been sufficient money to carry out the program according to standards and under the law. Finefrock said the budget would require more money for needs in the future, and added that the board had plans this year for putting a complete health program in operation, but was unable to do so for lack of funds.

MEET TUESDAY

He said he would call a meeting of the board next Tuesday, possibly in the afternoon, to go over the report and present a number of recommendations.

Finefrock said he was meeting with the commissioners this afternoon on the report.

An open meeting of the newly-formed Richland county Child Welfare council will be held today at 7:30 p. m. in the American Legion hall.

Vernon Lawrence, president of the council, said the group would make plans for future action, after a presentation of the report on the child welfare needs of Richland county.

The child welfare specialists who made the report will present it to the group.

Telephone Strike Threat Eases Off

WASHINGTON —(UP)— Wage talks in the telephone industry are scheduled to end at midnight tonight, but there seems little chance of a telephone strike even if no settlements are reached.

Spokesmen for the two unions demanding higher wages said they have no immediate plans to call their members out on strike.

Chief Hopes To Pay Back His 'Friend'

AUDUBON, N. J.—(INS)— Police Chief Floyd L. Deblaker of Audubon swore vengeance today on the prankster who has been deluging him with C. O. D. parcels—and other things.

To date, the chief has received —and sent back—a television set, Scotch whiskey and a mink coat. Two hearses also arrived to pick up "the body."

After that, a Philadelphia contractor arrived to prepare for the installation of 21 storm windows and two storm doors, all unordered.

Tighten Defenses In Pacific

U. S. Commanders Confer on Setup

TOKYO —(AP)— American commanders in the Pacific and Alaska discussed measures to prevent another Pearl Harbor in a series of top secret conferences with Gen. Douglas MacArthur ending today.

The problem of Pacific defenses brought together key officers of the Army, Navy and Airforce guarding the northwestern and far eastern frontiers of the United States.

Airforce Lt. Gen. Nathan F. Twining, commanding the Alaska defenses, and Vice Admiral John L. McCrea, deputy commander of the U. S. Pacific fleet, met with Gen. MacArthur for three days.

STUDY PRECAUTIONS

They met within view of Japan's imperial palace grounds — just across the moat from the big white building housing Allied headquarters—where the Dec. 7, 1941, attack on the U. S. Pacific fleet received final sanction.

Informed sources confined information on the talks to two points:

1. The American commanders discussed with Gen. MacArthur, Practical precautions against the possibility of another surprise attack.

2. The high-ranking officers attained a "fine spirit of cooperation and coordination" among the army, navy and airforce. This was described as an outstanding achievement.

Agreement to work together in the Pacific followed the general pattern of unified defense set forth by Secretary of Defense Forrestal. The Tokyo talks got down to the practical application which must take place in the field in the event of war.

Sources reviewing the conferences made no reference to the first mid-winter amphibious landing attack exercise in the far north. It will be held next February in "the Alaska area," Pacific fleet headquarters announced yesterday.

Bevin Blasts Soviet Aims

LONDON — (UP) — Foreign Secretary Ernest Bevin called on the Russians today to reveal "the extent of their ambitions."

Bevin made his first public address since his return from the United Nations meeting in Paris at a luncheon of the National Union of Manufacturers.

"If we cannot get an agreement," he said, "the issue that has got to be settled is can we live together? What areas do they want to live in? What is the extent of their ambitions?"

"They are the last of the imperialistic races — as imperialistic as a czar ever was."

Two Autos Damaged

Chief Pledges Aid In Curbing Vandals

Police Chief Jesse J. Schwab today pledged "absolute" cooperation with Juvenile Judge Stuart Cramer's edict to prosecute the parents of Halloween vandals.

His action followed two of the most severe cases of vandalism reported to the police to date. Officers said two cars have been damaged, one stripped of its chrome trimming and the other smeared with a paint-scratching substance.

Tom Dorsey, 168 Blanche street, reported to police yesterday that his car was covered with the paint-scratching substance while it was parked on Millsboro road Monday night.

At 5:30 a. m. today, Harold Bechtel, 65½ South Walnut street, reported that the right side door glass in his car had been shattered and that the chrome stripping around the windows had been torn loose.

Meanwhile, the sheriff's office docket was noticeably absent of vandalism reports today, following Judge Cramer's proclamation.

"It wouldn't be any use to prosecute the vandals and not the parents when the parents may be responsible for the children's actions," Chief Schwab said. "In some cases the parents may not be responsible; in other cases where children are permitted out late at night, they are responsible."

Rightist Wins Japan Election

TOKYO —(INS)— Shigeru Yoshida, head of the Democratic-Liberal (rightist) party, was elected premier of Japan by the Diet (parliament) tonight by a narrow plurality.

Ohio Issue Takes Shape

COLUMBUS —(INS)— Former Gov. Frank J. Lausche's endorsement of President Truman may prove the turning point in Ohio's political campaign.

The endorsement was immediately made a campaign issue by Governor Herbert who charged that the President and Lausche are tarred with the same "New Deal brush." Lausche's statement represented the first time the Democratic candidate for governor had linked himself with the national ticket.

As Herbert made his charges of New Dealism, Lausche went back to attacking the telephone line which once connected the Republican state headquarters to the State Office building switchboard.

Lausche asserted that the phone line indicated that "the very public officials and private political persons who used the telephone lines knew they had no public purposes and feared to continue using them. The phone was removed after a protest from the state auditor's office.

Frost Sign Up Again

Chill To Cover State Tonight

The weatherman hung up the frost warning again today, predicting a light coating tomorrow morning for most of Ohio.

Although the mercury dipped to 39 today, no frost damage was reported in the city area. Mansfield was one of the warmer spots in Ohio. Columbus reported a low of 35, Dayton 37, and Cincinnati 38.

The temperature had climbed to 52 at noon today.

Scattered showers were forecast for tonight, but tomorrow will be fair and a little warmer, the forecast said.

Frost would do little harm now, except to unprotected flowers. Corn and other farm crops are ready for harvest and most of the garden vegetables have been harvested.

Anti-Gambling Stand Backed

RAVENNA —(INS)— Roy Garrett, Democratic candidate for Portage county sheriff, had the backing today of the newly-organized Good Government group.

The group denounced Sheriff George Shields for his failure to act against commercialized gambling in their strongly worded endorsement of Garrett.

The statement declared:

"All citizens know that a sheriff, who means what he says, need only order the gamblers to stay out and they will get out."

Printer Union Hit By Ruling

INDIANAPOLIS —(AP)— Federal Judge Luther M. Swygert today held the International Typographical Union in contempt of court and ordered the union to abide by his injunction in dealing with employers.

The judge set no penalty for the contempt, but ordered the officers of the union to appear in court within ten days to show that they have complied with the court decree.

The judge's opinion said the union has attempted to discriminate against newspaper employes in violation of the Taft-Hartley law and contrary to the court's injunction in making contracts. He ordered that this be discontinued.

Two Sides Asked To 'Clarify'

Consider Open Debate On Issue

BULLETIN

PARIS —(INS)— The United Nations Security Council voted to consider a Palestine settlement today, postponing debate on the critical Berlin issue until tomorrow. Overriding Arab objections, the Council decided by an eight to nothing vote, with three abstentions, to discuss the Holy Land problem at once.

PARIS —(INS)— An attempt to draw Russia into Security Council debate on Berlin was reported under consideration today.

Acting Council Chairman Juan A. Bramuglia of Argentina is understood planning to strive for clarification by both the Western powers and Russia when the council renews consideration of the blockade tomorrow.

Should Russia comply with such a request it will mean a reversal of the previous Soviet stand not to participate in any United Nations discussion of the Berlin issue.

There were indications also that Bramuglia is displeased by what he apparently feels is western power coolness to his previous mediation attempts.

BLAMES WEST

Bramuglia reportedly takes the position that the attitude of the westerners provoked the flat Russian rejection of his plan for a simultaneous plan for lifting the blockade and convoking a Big Four council of foreign ministers session on all of Germany.

America, Britain and France moved ahead meanwhile with plans to have the U.N. call upon Russia formally to lift the blockade and cease endangering world peace.

Delegates of the Western powers conferred for more than an hour this morning and plan to meet again tonight.

★

'Stand Pat' Red Policy Foreseen

BERLIN — (INS) — The Soviet-controlled Berlin press said flatly today that the Russian blockade would never be lifted as a precondition to a Big Four German conference.

Taegliche Rundschau, organ of the Red army, also hinted broadly that the Soviet sector of Berlin soon may be incorporated into Russian-occupied Germany.

The newspaper attacked the removal of the non-communist Berlin magistrat (executive council) to the British sector as having "definitely split" the city.

Find Profit 'Fantastic'

WASHINGTON — (UP) — Steel scalpers are making "fantastic profits" at the expense of consumers who want automobiles and other scarce items, according to congressional investigators.

A House public works subcommittee reported that 10 to 12 per cent of the nation's steel production is being sold on the gray market at prices ranging up to 200 per cent of the established industry price.

Since the death of OPA such above-standard prices are not illegal. But the subcommittee said:

"These operators take unscrupulous advantage of the steel shortage and reap fantastic profits from the American people in dire need of stoves, bathtubs, automobiles, refrigerators, washing machines, farm machinery and other necessities."

Investigators told of deals in which gray market operators bought steel for as low as $93 a ton and sold it to manufacturers for as high as $270.

Ray of Hope Shines For Luekemia Victims

New Drug Gives Dying Ohio Child Chance For Life

COLUMBUS—(INS)—With their figurative fingers crossed, doctors breathed a cautious hope today that, at long last, they may have discovered a ray of hope for victims of leukemia.

For, at Toronto, near the Ohio-Pennsylvania line, a two-year-old girl, Nancy Love, is living a normal life following her apparent recovery from the dread blood disease which heretotore has been considered hopeless.

The child was treated at Ohio State hospital with a new drug —aminopterin—after her physician, Dr. William D. Paul, rushed her to Columbus when he discovered she was suffering from leukemia last July 19. The university hospital and another in Boston are the only ones where experiments are being conducted with the drug.

Because the application of the drug is still in an experimental state, hospital authorities said they could not yet assure the parents. Mr. and Mrs. Edward L. Love jr, that the recovery was permanent. Said Mrs. Love:

"The doctors told us we won't know definitely about Nancy's permanent condition for another two to five years. But we are confident that in that period of time the doctors will have attained greater advancement in the cure of this disease.

"We never gave up hope. The drug worked like a miracle—but we also feel that the wonderful progress Nancy made is because of our prayers."

Nancy weighed 18 pounds when admitted to the hospital. Two weeks later she weighed 31 pounds. During the first critical weeks, she was given nine blood transfusions through veins in her ankles. The veins in her arms were so shrunken that they could not receive the blood in the usual manner.

Nancy had her troubles. Pneumonia set in and was conquered. Then her ankles became infected. Then yellow jaundice set in.

Despite fears that drugs to offset the new ailments might react against the aminopterin, her response to six injections daily of the new drug were "immediate and effective."

The child now romps happily and normally with her four-year-old sister, Carolyn, but returns to Columbus weekly for a health examination.

Appleseed Wins Sixth; Simpson Team Loses

Pioneer 11 Bops Shelby Subs, 27-12

Johnny Appleseed became a top-heavy favorite to take the city junior high school crown when it racked up its sixth straight victory, 27-12, over the Shelby reserves last night at Arlin field.

John Simpson, which will meet Appleseed for the city title on Oct 27 meanwhile was losing 12-6, to the Ashland reserve team at Stadium field It was Simpson's second loss in four starts.

Coach Jimmy Lympers powerful Appleseed eleven scored in every period An intercepted pass and a Pioneer mental lapse led to the invaders' only touchdowns

Shelby took a 6-0 lead when Appleseed tossed the ball into its hands on the Pioneers first play from scrimmage Two long runs and a pass set up the score and Peyne carried over from the 10-yard line

COME ROARING BACK

The Pioneers came roaring back, however, and drove from their own 40 to the Shelby 15 from where Darce Shasky cut inside tackle to tie the game Freddie Zahn calmly place-kicked the first of three extra points to give the locals the lead

Shasky went over again in the second period this time on a 25 yard off-tackle jaunt The third score came on a 25-yard pass from Zahn to Joe Diemer, and the fourth on a five-yard plunge by Bud Montgomery Montgomery had fine blocking by Tom Goodhart and Richard Esbenshade

Shelby's second touchdown came on the second half kickoff when the invaders booted over the goal line and Appleseed neglected to fall on the ball Lysinger of Shelby came all the way down field and dropped on the pigskin for a touchdown

Simpson had a little tough luck in its 12-6 defeat Only a called-back touchdown on the opening kickoff kept the Bulldogs from at least a tie Bob Mathews had taken the kick on his own 35 and ran untouched for the score but a penalty was called against the home team and the touchdown brought back

GETS ONLY SCORE

As it was Bill Semonoff got the only Mansfield score as he went over from the five-yard line in the second quarter R Scott passed to Rickle for both Ashland TD's One of the plays was good for 65 yards, the other came from the eight.

The game was delayed an hour by a break-down of the Ashland bus

Only Four Boston Red Sox Sure of Posts In 1949

BOSTON—(AP)—It's almost a cinch bet Boston Red Sox owner Tom Yawkey Vice President Eddie Collins, General Manager Joe Cronin and Manager Joe McCarthy will be around next season—but don't bet on anyone else except possibly some of the better players

Yawkey couldn't hide his disappointment over losing the American league pennant, and much of the blame is being passed around to Sox and farm officials

The shakeup in the Sox organization which began before the club was beaten out in an unprecedented playoff appears likely to continue

Three members of the organization are gone and the Sox, rejecting all questions, indicate the three resigned

PUSHED OUT

The three disagree and say, in effect we didn't jump we were pushed"

Latest to go is Del Baker veteran coach and one-time Detroit Tiger manager who will be replaced by Hazen (Kiki) Cuyler erstwhile star National league outfielder and more recently a Southern association manager Cuyler played under McCarthy when the latter managed the Chicago Cubs

The Sox office reporting the change, said Baker had resigned At his San Antonio, Tex, home Baker retorted he had been dismissed in a telephone conversation with Cronin

George (Specs) Toporcer also said he wanted to stay in baseball' after the Sox said that he had resigned that his health was poor and that his farm director's job had been filled by Scout Johnny Murphy

My health is fine,' Toporcer told friends after he had been replaced

Toporcer's resignation-dismissal followed by a few days the firing of Assistant General Manager Phil Troy who had been with the Sox for 18 years

NO TITLE

His duties, without the title of assistant general manager, will be assumed by Richard O Connell '

O Connell has had three years experience as business manager of the Lynn Red Sox, a Boston farm in the Class B New England league

Earlier, Nemi Liebold had resigned as manager of the top Boston farm the Louisville Colonels of the American association, which finished a decided last in season competition

Yawkey is determined to have a winner but his farm system doesn't seem to be developing any crops

Ashland Eagle Eleven Seeks 4th Triumph

ASHLAND — In quest of their fourth victory in five starts the Ashland college Eagles travel to Fremont Saturday night to meet a favored Findlay eleven

A huge group of Ashland students and supporters is expected to make the 61-mile journey for the second annual Ashland Migration Day That is the day that a special effort is made to secure a large cheering section for the final Ashland road game

Instigated last year Migration Day took practically the whole student body to Kenyon college only to see the Eagles lose, 19-0

TWO STRAIGHT

The Hilltoppers will go into Saturday night's contest with two straight victories under their wings The Eagles won a season opener from Rio Grande but the following week to the undefeated Heidelberg Student Prince bit came back with victories over Cedarville and Defiance

Findlay has a one-two record losing to Akron and Mt Union but gaining a win over Bluffton college

Findlay enters into the game as the favorite by virtue of its 40-0 shellacking it handed the Eagles two years ago on the Hilltop own field This is the tenth meeting between the two squads Eagles having on five while dropping four

Shelby Gridders Seeking To Regain Victory Column

SHELBY—The Shelby Whippets will endeavor to regain the win column when they oppose the Ashland eleven at Ashland Friday evening

After three weeks of looking for replacements for injured players Coach Bill Wilkins should be in seventh heaven He has his first, second and third string quarterbacks available for the first time this year Jerry Wilson is back in uniform ready to go and Jerry Dennis the first string back, injured in the Willard game, and Stan Knapp, who was sidelined after the Galion game are also ready for the Ashlanders

The second reason is that with the exception of Clyde Bell all of the first string players will be in good shape after the drubbing the Whippets took at the hands of Bucyrus and also remembering the beating Coach Taylor's Ashlanders handed out last year the squad will be battling to regain face

The Whippets have been working on pass defense during the past week and hope to stop the Ashlanders air attack

Ashland, on the other hand, will be out for their first win of the season Judging from comparative scores it should be a toss-up as to the outcome However with the Whippets in their best shape since before the season started, Shelby should have a slight edge

Bourdeau Gets First Team Football Post

GRANVILLE — (NS — Harry Bourdeau of Ashtabula, who scored two touchdowns for Denison's undefeated Big Red last week, will be elevated to a starting post at right half against Wooster Saturday

Final Racing Slated Sunday For Big Cars

ASHLAND— Final big car race of the year will be held at the Ashland county fairgrounds Sunday under the auspices of the Tri-State Racing association

Most other tracks have already shut down for the season hence the Ashland oval will draw what will likely be the classiest field it has ever had

Heading the list of speed merchants will be Red Bayles of Columbus, currently the hottest driver on midwestern tracks Bayles has won 15 of his last 21 starts, including the 1948 Tri-State championship

Expected to press him to the limit are such first-rate drivers as Buck Barr of Zanesville, Carl Scarbough of Kego Harbor Mich, Billy McGee of Steubenville, Harry King of Los Angeles, Frankie Lupto of Tampa, Fla, and Ralph Stevens of Detroit

Races will begin at 2 30 p m with the first of three eight-lap eliminations A four lap helmet dash will be followed by a consolation and then the big 20-lap main event

Promoters say the track will be treated to hold down the dust. Approximately thirty cars are expected to compete in various events

Wyoming Cowboys Riding Herd On Western Outfits

DENVER — (U.P.) — One small voice piped up from a land of football mediocrity today, and the Universiay of Wyoming hopes that voice might eventually become a roar.

There have been no gridiron giants in the Rocky Mountain area since the days of Colorado's whizzer White a decade ago, but today Wyoming has the makings of a team which might snap the lethargy.

Head Coach Bowden Wyatt, who came to Wyoming last season after service at Tennessee and Mississippi State, is largely responsible for an offense which has every team in the region worried. Wyatt brought with him something he calls the "Tennessee-T," although it looks remarkably like a regulation single wingback formation.

Whatever it is, that offense has kept the cowpokes undefeated in three games while running up scores of 40-13 over Idaho State, 48-0 over Colorado State and 61-7 over Colorado college.

The Cowpokes stand near the top among the nation's college teams on total offense and are out in front on rushing offense. In three games they have gained 1,509 yards, and only 415 of those yards have been through the air.

Arctic Holds Key Air Role

Capt. W. O. Ash, commanding officer of the 164th Fighter Squadron, Air National Guard, based at Mansfield airport, told the Optimist club at its regular meeting yesterday that Arctic areas are playing an increasingly significant part in the nation's defense.

On a map, Ash pointed out the world's eight most important industrial areas. He showed how direct routes between those areas and the United States pass over the Arctic.

The only defense against atomic attack, Ash asserted, is immediate power of retaliation. For this reason, he continued, the Air National Guard plays a highly important role in the air defense of the United States. He went on to tell the meeting of the functions of the local 164th squaldron.

The 164th has 25 fighter aircraft, Ash said. There are 250 members of the squadron. Total authorized strength is 350 men.

FOND DU LAC (Wis.) TAVERN

JUSTICE AND HOSPITALITY . . .

In this tavern, and in scores of others like it, our forefathers assembled to erect a civilization of free men upon the solid foundation of Justice and Hospitality.

Here, too, they found companionship and refreshment in their hours of relaxation.

In the complex society of today separate buildings have been provided for each department of community life. Taverns remain as social centers. The hospitality of your own neighborhood tavern is enriched by Wiedemann's Fine Beer.

Always call for Wiedemann's Beer by name.

HAMMER MILLS
The No. 2S Fords Hammer Mill is 21½" in diameter which gives the rotor at the end of the hammer sufficient speed to crush instantly when belted up with an ordinary farm tractor and at the same time have a pulley of sufficient diameter to insure proper belt contact. Rotor diameters less than this to grind efficiently must have a speed jack. Only the Fords Hammer Mill has the patented adjustable hopper baffle plate. No rollers, no chains, no augers, no cutters.

HERE is a pleasant little game that will give you a message every day. It is a numerical puzzle designed to spell out your fortune. Count the letters in your first name. If the number of letters is 6 or more, subtract 4. If the number is less than 6, add 3. The result is your key number. Start at the upper left-hand corner of the rectangle and check every one of your key numbers, left to right. Then read the message the letters under the checked figures give you.

Sharp Drop In Prices On Food Not Due Yet

(By Associated Press)

Don't get too hopeful that any day now your food bill will drop sharply.

Some prices are lower than they were a month ago Chain stores in New York and the New England states this week announced further reductions of 2 to 20 cents a pound on many cuts of meat Farm prices generally have dropped below a year ago—and wholesale food indexes are headed downward.

But there has been no sharp break—and there is not likely to be because of government price supports.

Food industry experts also point to the high level of consumer spending at present prices They contend that prices are not out of line with income.

Victor T Norton, president of American Home Foods, Inc., told a food and beverage controllers meeting in New York that the same quantity of the same food that took 23 per cent of personal income after taxes in 1935-1939, took only 21 per cent of income in the second quarter of this year.

NEW RISE SEEN

And in Philadelphia Morris Sayre, president of the National Association of Manufacturers said consumers today have three times as much purchasing power as they had in 1939 He said that 25 to 40 years ago "25-cents a pound steak made just as big a dent in the $1, $2 or $3 a day worker's pay of those times as $1 a pound steak does in the tremendously increased worker's take-home pay today."

The institute of food distribution describes expectation of lower food prices as "a temporary state of mind."

That research group expects meat prices to strengthen after growers retard marketing The institute says with feed abundant it will be profitable to hold hogs and cattle for adding weight.

"Farmers are shrewd merchants, know that there will not be ample supply of pork until late in 1949" the institute said

The institute also pointed out that butter, which already is returning producers less than 90 per cent of parity, soon will be supported indirectly by the government.

"Return of strength in markets responsible for most of the present panicky ideas will change trade judgments about food prices generally if consumer buying from retail grocery stores continues as large as justified by spending power the institute added.

Besides that, CCC support of farm prices will prevent corn wheat rice, dry beans eggs, dairy products and other staple foods from dropping appreciably below bottoms the government is obligated to maintain through 1949

FATHER JOHN'S MEDICINE

WORKS 2 WAYS

Soothes coughs and throat irritation resulting from colds. Builds up body resistance when vitamin A is lacking. Very rich in vitamins A and D.

Its use for 90 years is convincing—it must have merit.

Tired Kidneys Often Bring Sleepless Nights

Doctors say your kidneys contain 15 miles of tiny tubes or filters which help to purify the blood and keep you healthy. When they get tired and don't work right in the daytime, many people have to get up nights. Frequent or scanty passages with smarting and burning sometimes shows there is something wrong with your kidneys or bladder. Don't neglect this condition and lose valuable, restful sleep.

When disorder of kidney function permits poisonous matter to remain in your blood, it may also cause nagging backache, rheumatic pains, leg pains, loss of pep and energy, swelling, puffiness under the eyes, headaches and dizziness.

Don't wait! Ask your druggist for Doan's Pills, a stimulant diuretic, used successfully by millions for over 50 years. Doan's give happy relief and will help the 15 miles of kidney tubes flush out poisonous waste from your blood. Get Doan's Pills. —Adv

Ohio State University Opens 75th Jubilee Celebration

COLUMBUS —(AP)— Ohio State [illegible] biggest thing in education, is 75 years [illegible]gram of speeches [illegible] world-famous educators, scientists, and religious leaders, starts off the year-long celebration of the diamond jubilee.

Ohio State, which now has more than 25,000 students studying, experimenting, playing football and following other normal pursuits of today's college people, was born in 1873 as the Ohio Agricultural and Mechanical college.

It was established as a land-grant institution, under the land grant act of Congress in 1862 to endow colleges teaching agricultural and mechanical arts, including military tactics.

LAND GRANT SOLD

The grant was of 620 acres, but the little college sold that for $342,450, deposited the proceeds in the state treasury and bought a 300-acre tract to set itself up. The university still draws interest on that deposit.

Among those helping get the year-long anniversary program started is Dr. Karl T. Compton, Wooster native who is resigning as president of the Massachusetts Institute of Technology to became chairman of the U. S. Military Research and Development board. He will address the anniversary dinner Friday night.

President J. L. Morrill of the University of Minnesota, a former vice-president here; President Howard L. Bevis of Ohio State are the principal speakers at this afternoon's opening convocation, and Gov. Thomas J Herbert of Ohio.

Another speaker during the two days will be Dr. Charles Franklin Kettering. "Boss" Kettering is the Loudonville farm boy who took a degree in electrical engineering in the class of 1904 and went on to run the vast research program of General Motors corporation until he retired last year.

A university trustee, he speaks tonight, along with Dr Cornelius Kruse, chairman of the department of philosophy at Wesleyan university, Middletown Conn.

Two to Attend Vets' Meeting

John E. Steel, president of the Richland county Soldier's Relief commission, and Harry A. Vandervort, county service officer, will go to Toledo to attend a semi-annual meeting of the executive committee of the Association of Ohio Soldiers Relief commission Saturday and Sunday.

Vandervort said the meeting is for the purpose of planning the future program so as to increase services to veterans, and to exchange ideas County commissioners yesterday approved a request for approximately $50 to cover expenses of the trip to the meeting as provided by law

Professor Outlines Five Ways To Improve English Teaching

Five points to be emphasized in "The Function of English Instruction in Training for the Democratic Way of Life," were presented last night to members of the Mansfield Council of English Teachers, meeting in the John Simpson cafeteria.

These five points as stressed by the speaker, Prof. Harold Anderson, assistant professor of education at the University of Chicago, included.

Use of oral English in formal and informal discussion; study of literature to help us realize the unity of mankind; way in which we can be intelligent consumers of commercial sources of education such as the newspapers; art of listening, which is done 1,000 more times than the art of reading, and the art of critical thinking.

"The study of English will help us do all of these things toward living a more democratic way of life," Prof Anderson declared.

During the business meeting, Miss Elsie McFadden and Miss Virginia Mickey were elected as delegates to the National Council meeting in Chicago, Nov. 26 and 27. Miss Mary Bair and Mrs. Josephine Rosen were chosen as alternates.

Miss Louise Lynch presided at the meeting and the social hour following was in charge of Miss Alice Schwed and Miss Florence Shires

Youth Gets 60-Day Term

Gerald Smith, 19, of 314 East Fourth street, was sentenced to 60 days in the county jail yesterday by Juvenile Judge Stuart H. Cramer after Smith confessed he caused the delinquency of a 17-year-old companion by encouraging him in an attempted unarmed robbery.

Police said the attempt was made Tuesday against Joe Gralka, of 350 Reed street.

The 17-year-old youth, who lives near Shelby, was put on probation for one year and warned that he could be sent to the Boys' Industrial school.

The probation terms state that he must remain out of Mansfield unless accompanied by an adult, that his parents are to report to the court once a month on his behavior. He was ordered to go to work or attend school.

Community Chest Season Is Here

MANSFIELD'S Community Chest campaign is getting its start-off this week with a canvass of industrial plants, and assurances of co-operation of workers provides a heartening outlook for the city-wide solicitation to begin next Monday and continue through Thursday, October 28.

Mansfielders have become so familiar with the plan and purpose of the Community Chest campaign, and their support has been so well evidenced for many years, that little need be said in support of the idea of substituting one general canvass for the numerous appeals for contributions that preceded adoption of the Chest plan.

The fact that this fund-raising campaign enlists the enthusiastic help of 500 volunteer workers who give freely of time and effort in addition to their own contributions, indicates the spread of interest in this worthy project, by which twelve essential community agencies are aided in the performance of services without which Mansfield could not long survive as a good city in which to live, work and rear a family.

Each of the agencies listed as participating in the distribution of the Community Fund has a special field of activity in which it serves some form of actual need: Boy Scouts; Girl Scouts; Y. M. C. A.; Y. W. C. A.; Friendly House; Salvation Army; St. Vincent de Paul Society; dental clinic; milk fund and student aid; hospital bureau; Visiting Nurse association, and United Service Organizations.

Study of this list, with understanding of the service that each agency performs, cannot fail to impress all prospective contributors with the worthiness of all of them to the support made possible through the Community Chest—which this year has as its goal $122,635, regarded as a minimum sum in meeting actual needs.

A thought, as this week's industrial canvass is under way, and as the general solicitation starts next Monday, is that the task of workers be lightened as much as possible by promptness in deciding the amount of contribution and in signing the card that will be presented.

Political Strikes Harass France

AMERICANS who think that political campaign interfere with the ordinary activities of the day in this country should consider the situation in such countries as France. Communists opposing the middle-of-the-road government there have not restricted their activities to the chambers of government; they have kept industry and commerce in a state of uncertainty and inefficiency for months.

The communist technique is to use the labor strike as a political weapon, and this has been done not only in France but in Italy, Czechoslovakia and elsewhere. In France recently the communists shut down the coal mines for a long period, at a time when winter is drawing near, and severely hampered the operation of railroads with other strikes.

Sometimes demands for wage increases or improved working conditions are used as an excuse for the political strikes, but in many other instances the strikes have been openly and frankly intended to harass or bring pressure on the government for political purposes.

The damage which can be done by such tactics is nowhere more evident than in France. The unstable political set-up there is bad enough, but now French governments, in addition to having a tottery political foundation, also must contend with constant financial difficulties and labor troubles.

Warning To Parents of Pranksters

LACK of parental restraint is clearly evidenced by the outbreak of youthful vandalism that customarily appears a couple of weeks before Halloween—as is now being experienced in the Mansfield area.

It seems too much to expect of children in early teen ages that they should recognize the difference between innocent pastimes and dangerous or destructive practices unless they have received training in their homes, and it is quite proper that they be taken in hand by the police if they indulge in acts of rowdyism that ignore the rights of others.

But the responsibility for damages, as Juvenile Judge Stuart H. Cramer explains it, must rest upon parents rather than that irresponsible children should be regarded as the chief culprits.

Judge Cramer also emphasizes the folly of requiring city patrolmen and sheriff's office deputies to give time in quelling youthful pranksters instead of devoting attention to other law enforcement duties.

This is a season of the year at which parents need be particularly observant of the behavior of their young children after nightfall—or be prepared to meet the expense of their negligence.

Supply of Metals Dwindling

MORE MINERALS have been taken out of the ground in the United States since 1900 than had previously been extracted in the whole world since the beginning of time. This startling statement is made by Prof. R. P. Linstead, director of the government chemical laboratory. He implied the next question to occur to most people: How long can this go on?

There is such a thing as mineral exhaustion. Britain, says Prof. Linstead, once supplied the lead for the plumbing of ancient Rome. Now it has to import its lead. He might have added that ancient Ireland was noted as a source of gold. That was many a century ago.

Some day the world may be brought up with a start by the realization that its metals are reaching the vanishing point.

Commenting on John L. Lewis's salary boost to $50,000 a year, the Detroit News reminds: "At the bottom of it, consumers are paying more than twice as much as formerly for coal"—as you may have noticed.

Revising a New Deal slogan, it is being suggested that President Truman should put it thus: "If it doesn't work, let's find something else that doesn't work."

What Some Other People Are Saying

Warns of Isolationists

By THOMAS L. STOKES

WASHINGTON — The time has come belatedly when the so-called "bi-partisan foreign policy" is being revealed once again as a campaign camouflage that is detrimental to the best long-range interests of the nation.

Senator J. Howard McGrath (R. I.), Democratic national chairman, is screaming now, only three weeks before election, about this pious pose as used in the campaign and its dangers, to which Democrats woke up only a couple of days before the 1946 congressional election — too late, of course.

The national chairman was very wrathy about the Republicans' claim that they invented the bi-partisan foreign policy, which is not true, of course, but this is not the important thing.

What is important he put his finger on when he pointed out that Republican foreign policy by daring to mention during the campaign that there have been and still are many isolationists in responsible positions of leadership in the Republican party.

Certainly there are. And, for the good of the nation, and, for that matter, for the good of the "bi-partisan foreign policy" itself, they should be singled out, named, and their records read publicly.

What a threat they are to an effective international cooperation policy was disclosed plainly in the last session of Congress, when, through their influence in the House leadership, the House all but wrecked the reciprocal trade program and slashed appropriations for the European Recovery Program.

Luckily the Senate patched up the reciprocal trade program and extended it, but only for a year, and also raised the ERP amount to what was required. But it was a close shave, as those who went through that fight and those of us who watched it know only too well.

* * *

Consulting the Record.

THE GENTLEMEN who comprised the wrecking crew are all up for re-election — Representative Taber (N. Y.), appropriations committee chairman; Halleck (Ind.), Republican House leader; Allen (Ill.), rule committee chairman; Brown (O.) ranking rules committee member; Knutson (Minn.), ways and means committee chairman, and Gearhart (Calif.), who collaborated with Chairman Knutson in the reciprocal trade knifing act, as well as many rank and file members, including some Democrats, who cooperated with this clique in the GOP leadership.

While it will not be possible, perhaps, to dislodge the leaders, the roll ought to be called often so that the public at large can keep its eyes on them, all of which will be helpful to Governor Dewey and his administration, assuming that we are in for a change and that Mr. Dewey will espouse the strong international cooperation policy he preaches. For he will find his hands full with these gentlemen.

Governor Dewey is making much of the "mistakes" of Democratic foreign policy, repeatedly calling up Yalta and Potsdam, and complaining of niggardliness toward China, which he talks about on the ground that Republicans were not consulted in these matters and therefore they are not included in the "bi-partisan policy." This is perfectly proper in an election campaign.

It is equally proper, and in fact essential in the public interest, that Democrats point out the "nationalists," as they are called now, and publicize their records.

Any foreign policy that requires implementation by congress as do, for example, the reciprocal trade program and ERP, is only so good as Congress makes it, and it certainly will be threatened again in the next administration if the gentlement who tried to play havoc with it in the last Congress are not kept under surveillance and under check-rein. Some of them might be defeated if the public were told the facts.

Timely Editorial

Why Reds Tell Whoppers.

Gov. Thomas E. Dewey, making a campaign speech in Los Angeles a few days ago, had a pretty good paragraph about the communists:

"I suppose you've sometimes wondered as I have why the communist loves to tell such whoppers about America. There's a very easy answer to that question. The communist misrepresents America because he does not dare tell the truth about it. That's why he has to have an iron curtain—so that America's truth can be kept out and communism's falsehoods kept in."

The governor's words sound pretty sensible to us.— Milwaukee Journal.

Bromfield Finds Flaws

THAT article in Life Magazine about Louis Bromfield and his Malabar farm appears to have been more fictional than factual, according to Bromfield himself, who has written to Life about some of the "remarkable inaccuracies" to which he directs attention.

Most of the inaccuracies, Bromfield asserts, "appeared to reflect unfavorably upon the main purpose of Malabar Farm, which is to serve practical agriculture in general and the average farmer in particular."

And then there's that exaggeration about the number of rooms in the Bromfield family home — which the writer of Life's article placed at 34. "In going over the house that I built and in which I have lived for ten years, I could not dig up more than 16 rooms, including hall and kitchen—even by counting cupboards, closets and bathrooms I could not make the count approach anywhere near your figure . . . your reporter spent five days on the farm and lived in the mythical '34-room house' . . . I am as much interested in the reasons for the inaccuracies as for the errors themselves. As a newspaper man I always believed that accuracy was the first qualification of a great newspaper."

A statement that $200,000 had been put into the farm is also called "grotesquely inaccurate," Bromfield's statement being: "The total farm investment, including improvements and soil restoration, represents about $125 an acre, which is about half the investment and value represented by any good productive farm in the Middle West, even at non-inflationary prices."

There was also that matter of Bromfield's farm experience, which, according to the article, did not start until around the age of 40, but, according to Bromfield's version—and he should know:

"I spent the whole of my youth between a farm and a small city, and at the age of 17 was in complete charge of a 90-acre farm with a good-sized dairy herd which I milked twice a day, single-handed—this for a period of nearly two years in which all plowing, manure-spreading and other operations were done by myself . . . I have lived in a city a maximum of four years out of 52."

In a personal note to The News-Journal Bromfield says: "It seems to me that Life might have realized I like Richland county pretty well when I was free to choose any place in the world to live and settled down there."

On October 14, 1912, it was reported that Zeppelin airships in Germany had made an uninterrupted flight of thirty-one hours duration.

As Cerf Tells It

Two members of the class of Amherst '39 met in Atlantic City. "Hi, Tom," yelled one. "Did you ever get married, or are you still darning your own socks and making your own breakfast?" Tom answered, "Yes."

Help By Being Kind

By ELSIE ROBINSON

I SUSPECT that if we were to condense all the great religions in the world into one phrase, they would run something like this—

BE KIND.

It doesn't sound like an elaborate creed. There is no complicated ritual about it. Yet you'd search far for any formula that would mean more to battered, bewildered human souls than that simple creed—

Of being kind.

Yes, I know there are many spectacular things a man might do. He may take his place among the shining saints and seers. He may become renowned for his generosity and revered for his sanctity. But, speaking as one sinner to another, I doubt if anything counts so much in this life or the next as just being kind.

We are all so jumbled.

We're all so hurt and hurried and heckled.

We have made such a mess of things that just a friendly smile is worth its weight in gold.

Just a kind answer where there might have been a sharp rebuke . . .

Just a forgiving grin where there might have been a bitter judgment . . .

Just an understanding touch when you know you've been in the wrong . . .

How such kindness helps! How it lifts you out of the gutter and gives you back your self respect! How it restores you to your proper place in life!

Just being kind. Doubtless there are greater and more glorious virtues than kindness. But, as for me, I've needed simple kindness more than anything else on earth. For it's done something for me that the most eloquent sermon failed to do.

It has made me feel that I was worth-while again and that I could make good even though I'd failed so badly. It has given me back my soul.

And if I could have my choice of all the virtues, I'd choose, first of all, the simple blessing of being kind.

Dave Boone Says:

I FIGURE we should be glad President Truman didn't get more unsteady under the strain of campaigning than he did. He might have kissed Justice Vinson, sent a couple of babies to see Joe Stalin and ordered an Indian chief to serve with Secretary Marshall.

* * *

The big problem now is how to fly Harry safely out of the "bad boner corridor."

* * *

Well, I guess he was tired of just bunting in this campaign and wanted to swing from the hips.

* * *

It seemed to me that the most dramatic episode of the whole affair was the stirring rescue of Justice Vinson by airplane. He was in a desperate plight when George Marshall came out of the clouds and saved him, practically unhurt.

Washington Merry-Go-Round

Famous Names of Students Fluster Cop

By DREW PEARSON

WASHINGTON — Chief Justice Fred B. Vinson is not going to Moscow and his name, therefore, will not become a by-word with the Russian people. Down in Virginia, however, his name is so well knows that it caused a Virginia traffic cop to rub his yes.

Among the students at Washington and Lee University happen to be the grandson of a late famous Virginia senator, the great grandson of a famed Civil war hero, and the son of a chief justice. All three were riding together near Lexington, Va., when arrested for speeding.

The policeman, proceeding to book them, asked their names.

"Robert E. Lee IV," replied the first student.

It happened that he was telling the truth. The traffic cop looked up quizzically but wrote the name down, then asked for the next name.

"Carter Glass III," was the reply.

The cop wrote the name down, then queried the third student.

"What's yours?"

"Fred M. Vinson jr." replied young Vinson.

"Then my name's Napoleon," exclaimed the flustered cop, and let all three boys go.

Note—Mrs. Vinson, wife of the chief justice, suggested to her son that after graduating at Washington and Lee he might want to take his law degree at Yale. A Yale degree, she intimated, might give him a better springboard into the legal fraternity. Replied her son: "Little old Center College (Kentucky) was good enough for dad, wasn't it?"

"Kickback" Parnell Thomas.

MOST readers of this column, judging by the mail, heartily disapprove of Congressman J. Parnell Thomas's system of salary kickbacks from clerks and stenographers.. However, one or two readers have asked why I singled out Chairman Thomas.

The answer is that Thomas was not singled out. For many years this column has exposed kickbacks and nepotism among congressmen wherever they existed and regardless of political party. Thomas got no worse treatment than the others. It merely happens that his record seems to be worse than the others.

The first congressman this column exposed for salary kickbacks was Rep. Richard Kleburg of Texas, of the famed King Ranch, largest cattle ranch in the world. Kleburg was a Democrat. The people of Texas promptly rose up and removed him from office.

Another congressman exposed for kickbacks was Rep. Ed Rowe of Akron, Ohio, Republican, who required his secretary, Miss Margaret Nelson, to kick back around $112 a month out of her $212 salary to pay certain of Rowe's expenses. The voters of Ohio promptly saw to it that Rowe did not go back to Washington.

Contrary to some people's opinion, most congressmen have clean, honest records when it comes to kickbacks. Only a small minority practice it.

The salaries received by their clerks and stenographers are paid by the U.S. government, not by the congressmen, and the clerks and stenographers are entitled to the full amount. Most of them earn it.

Other members of the un-American activities committee have clean records when it comes to kickbacks and nepotism. And their chairman is hurting the cause for which the committee was established—good Americanism—by stooping to illegal and unethical practices.

Money Goes Up In Smoke

THE brass hats have kept it hushed up, but the Air Force wasted thousands of dollars taking worthless movies of the Bikini atomic-bomb tests. For some unexplained reason, the job was turned over to inexperienced officers who fancied themselves moviemakers.

Brig. Gen. Paul Cullen, then a colonel, had charge of the Air Force camera crews at Bikini. His masterpiece was a glorified, technicolor, training film called "Able Baker Day," which he sent over to Metro-Goldwyn-Mayer to be edited. But even after the Hollywood experts added their touches, the picture was such a flop and so hostile to the Army and Navy that it couldn't be shown.

Instead the top brass ordered all the extra prints burned, and only two copies kept for the files.

Since Cullen had gone ahead and ordered 48 prints, this made an expensive bonfire—paid for out of the taxpayers' pocket. Cost of the film alone that went up in smoke: $86,000.

Since the Atomic Energy Commission had called upon all the armed services to cooperate in filming the Bikini explosions, the Navy was working on a similar picture at the same time Cullen was making "Able Baker Day." But Cullen was in such a hurry to finish the Air Force picture first and scoop the Navy that he sent an Air Force technical adviser under the pretense of helping the Navy, though with secret instructions to obstruct and delay the Navy picture.

The Air Force also made another $50,000 technicolor extravaganza of Bikini, called "Phantom Wings." This smelled so that it also was never shown again after the preview. It was produced by Maj. James L. Gaylord whose total photographic background, up to that time, had been as a personnel officer.

And here is how the Air Force has rewarded the two officers who wasted so much of the taxpayers' money: Cullen was promoted from colonel to brigadier general, and Gaylord—in spite of his first flop—was placed in charge of filming the recent super-secret tests at Eniwetok for the Atomic Energy Commission. He was supposed to have finished 24 films by Oct. 1; so far, has delivered only five.

Note—The air inspector general is now investigating these cases.

Doctor Learns Secrets

By KENNETH L. DIXON

WASHINGTON — Doctor Wilburn H. Ferguson does not go in for any of the "Bongo, bongo, bongo, I don't wanta leave the Congo" routine. As far as he's concerned, civilization is okay —, and the fact that he's been away from it for some seventeen years or so only intensifies his appreciation of it, now that he's back home again.

But he does believe that modern medicine men still can profit by paying attention to the results of slightly unorthodox experiments conducted by their somewhat more superstitious brethren in the savage state.

And, to dramatize his point of view, he carries with him a handful of shrunken human heads.

When the oohing and aahing subsides, Dr. Ferguson points out that the shrinking process developed by the savages may well prove to be a brand new attack on the cancer problem. But more of that later.

Doctor Ferguson, a bespectacled and personable young (40 or so) medic who was born in Oklahoma, actually has no Congo connections at all, but is an Amazon Basin resident who recently returned from Ecuador. He has, as previously indicated, been there quite a spell.

His literal mission in the states is to interest university medical students in the establishment of an international teaching hospital for post-graduate students at Quito, Ecuador. Specifically, he has been director of anesthesia at the San Juan de Dios hospital there for some time.

But the big, blondish doctor has more than a single mission in mind. He has brought back, to turn over to American medical experts, more than twenty-four crude drugs which have been used by the Jivaro tribes along the Amazon to treat various ailments for many years.

In most instances, it took him nearly all of the seventeen years he spent among the Jivaros to finally gain access to the secrets of the tribal medicine men and chieftains.

* * *

Can't Be "Laughed Off."

MEDICAL and scientific experts here in Washington agree that, in at least one or two cases, he unquestionably is the only white man ever to have been given the secret, so-called savage formulae.

One of these super-secrets—and, of course, the most dramatic one—concerns the shrinking of human heads and its possible connection with a formula for fighting cancer. The reason why top-flight medical men are interested in it is, of course, highly technical, but still understandable.

It boils down to the fact that cancer is a pathological condition in which the cellular tissue throws off all normal restraints of growth and continues to grow and multiply. No medical or scientific formulae as yet have been successful either in stopping its growth or in shrinking the tissue after the growth has gotten well underway.

Doctor Ferguson, who has brought eight shrunken human heads with him as samples, points out that the process which the Jivaros have perfected leaves the cartilaginous tissue of the ears and the nose intact, and in perfect proportion—although many times reduced.

And he has brought with him the drug used in that shrinking.

It is, of course, quite simple to debunk the whole business. All that is necessary is to point out that the Jivaros were shrinking dead tissue, whereas the fighting of cancer requires the shrinking of living tissue. And that is speaking only in the layman's somewhat loose language on the subject. When the medical experts have at it, they can make mock of the whole theory.

The only thing is that they don't. And this is why:

The hospital where Doctor Ferguson works was dedicated by Spain in 1565 and has been in continuous operation ever since.

It has been responsible for some of the most dramatic forward steps in medical science throughout nearly four centuries.

More than that, the area involved, for example, is the one where quinine was first used against malaria (in 1628), and where modern medicine's newest drugs were found.

Time To Enjoy Cider

By CALVIN A. BYERS

WHEN forest leaves are turning scarlet, blue and mauve, and corn fields have long rows of shocks and firm upon the landscape, when yellow pumpkins reflect a golden glimmer like nuggets upon the land and apple orchards bend down with red and yellow fruit—then along back roads horse-drawn wagons go with loads of knotty or somewhat inferior apples, to the cider mills where the hydraulic press makes them into food that is the essence of autumn.

The culls are ground, layered between strong cotton cloths, and pressed until the juice spritzs out and runs in a fragrant stream into the container prepared for it. For old times sake I cut a rye straw and sucked the fresh sweet cider through. The flavor awakened rich memories of happy boyhood life—when our cider was pressed by an old horse-power mill, and it was joy to swing the whip above the horses, as well as to taste the cool juicy stream that flowed from the press.

We used to fill a small keg with the best of the crop, and let it ripen a few days in a chilly place, then pound out the bung and fill a pitcher with the gusher of frothy cider.

Tiny pin-head bubbles burst upon the surface, and a few flecks of foam hung along the edge of the glass.

Rich natural unfermented wine of the apple orchard . . . it held the fragrance of apple bloom in May, the crisp cold of frosty October, blue sky and gentle autumn sunshine—the flavor of fresh spring soil, the rainbow of dew from the meadow, all mingled and blended together with fond recollections and family history.

It is the foundation of the apple-butter that buttresses so well the winter pantry in every Pennsylvania Dutch household. It serves as a medicine, keeping the doctor from your door. It belongs, with husking bees and barn raisings and turkey and Thanksgiving to the strong pioneer history of our land.

Orchardists of our locality use their barns as display rooms very often. Here you find rows of bushels of apples, barrels of cider, piles of pumpkins and garden vegetables. City cars make our gravel road dusty at this time of year, driving out to buy fruit from the growers.

Reports Sharp Reduction In U. S. Traffic Deaths

NEW YORK —(INS)— Maj. Gen. Philip B. Fleming reported today that traffic fatalities have been cut nearly in half in the United States during the past two years.

Gen. Fleming, general chairman of President Truman's highway safety conference, made his report to the International Association of Chiefs of Police, meeting in New York.

He said that traffic deaths were "above 12" for every 100-million vehicle-miles when the first conference was called in 1946. The figure now is below seven.

Gen. Fleming credited the increased number of traffic officers employed by some states with bringing down the national toll.

He urged the chiefs to "get together with other states and municipal officials and compare notes." Fleming added that "now is the time to find out what legislation you need to make the road ahead a safe road."

Another speaker, Paul H Blaisdell, director of the national committee for traffic safety, called for "progressive realism" in the problem of drivers who drink.

He added

"We have legislated and regulated against the flagrant case — the driver who is so intoxicated that he wobbles all over the road and ends with a serious collision

"But for every such driver there are a hundred reputable citizens, men and women, who have had two or three cocktails and feel certain of their ability to drive an automobile.

"There is a case for education, for public opinion forcing appreciation of responsibility to use extra caution or to stay off the highway until all possibility of the influence of alcohol has passed"

Lee C Richardson, of Lansing, Mich., chairman of the State Officials' National Highway Safety committee, stressed the importance of sound, uniform traffic laws throughout the United States.

He said that along with the drunk and careless driver, "the confused driver constitutes a real hazard in traffic"

$46,000 In Auto Tag Funds Distributed

Richland county received $35,074 for its road fund from the third distribution of auto license fees, which amounted to $46,365, County Auditor Norman L. Wolfe said today.

The balance was divided this way: Mansfield, $8,968; Bellville, $217; Butler, $104; Lexington, $132; Lucas, $119; Plymouth, $186, Shelby, $1,410, and Shiloh, $115.

DR. HARRY WAIN TALKS TO B. AND P. W. CLUB, GUESTS

National Business and Professional Women's Week Observed With Dinner Meeting.

THE ideal for the public health service is to get everyone to live long enough and old enough to die of old age," is the statement made by Dr. Harry Wain, Richland county health commissioner, who was a guest speaker at the Business and Professional Women's association Wednesday evening.

Dr. Wain said, "Public health, as a science, is a baby. It is less than 100 years old. It was first started in 1850.

Before 1900, Chicago, the second largest city in the United States, had the highest typhoid fever death rate in the world. After the public health service went to work and cleaned up the Chicago river, the city had and still has the lowest typhoid death rate.

The club met in the undercroft of the Grace Episcopal church for a dinner celebrating the National Business and Professional Women's week.

The speaker's table was centered with a bouquet of mixed roses. Branches of honeysuckle were placed around the roses and green and orange candles lighted the table.

Fifty-three members and guests were seated at five tables centered with arrangements of mixed zennias. Honeysuckle and green and orange candles were placed beside the bouquets.

Mrs. William Clauss, president of the Mansfield club, introduced the guests for the evening. Mrs. Merwin Sanders, president, of the Ashland branch, Mrs. Rachel Tarr, radio chairman, Mrs. Laura Hales, sunshine chairman, Miss Mary Ellen Wolfe, corresponding secretary, Mrs. Eldon Kirkwood and Mrs. Ann Williams, all from Ashland. The honored guest for the evening was Mrs. Olive Fry, who celebrated her 76th birthday. Mrs. Fry is the mother of two members of the Mansfield group.

Miss Agnes Kessler, YWCA secretary, Dr. and Mrs. Wain and Mrs. N. J. Scanlon were the other guests introduced.

It was announced that a covered-dish dinner would be held at the Hidden Hollow camp Saturday evening. Miss Marjorie High is in charge of arrangements.

Miss Teresa Pelffer, corresponding secretary, was named the member of the month.

Mrs. Kerr, Miss Lois Addlesperger and Mrs. Clauss will go to Cleveland Sunday to hear the national president speak.

The Business and Professional Women's Glee club entertained with four songs, "Dancing On the Green," "When I Have Sung My Songs," "Minuet" and "Mine Alone." Miss Myrtle Booth directed them and Mrs. Fred Cahall accompanied the glee club at the piano.

The next meeting of the group will be Nov. 10 in St. Paul's Lutheran church. Mrs. Nancy Myer, Miss Althea Lorentz and Mrs. Edna Ohler will be the hostesses for the meeting.

The committee for last evening's affair was program, Miss Martha McFarland, chairman, Miss Clara Miller, Miss Lucille Beattie and Miss Rebecca Grubaugh. The hospitality committee was headed by Mrs. Maude Vail, chairman, with Miss Flora Lentzy and Miss Beatrice Piatt assisting.

Pin dresses to the washline by seams or waistbands unless they are dried on hangers.

Household Hints

Few women realize that very elaborate coiffures are aging. So keep your hair style simple if you want to look young. Simple hairdos are easy to care for and only have need of a good, really natural looking permanent. One of the main reasons why the home permanent produces such a soft, natural looking wave, says Raymond Reed, director of Toni research, is because the chemical action is so gentle.

If you fold straight pieces straight as they come from the washline and place them flat and smooth in the basket to keep them in shape and as unwrinkled as possible, you will save extra work in ironing.

HOROSCOPE

For Friday, October 15.

IT might be just as well to start important activities of the day on a policy of "going it alone" as far as the support of higher-ups may be thought desirable. In fact there may be very concrete and objective opposition from such sources, since these may institute a campaign of misrepresentation, gossip, or organized attack aimed at causing loss and obstruction. Nonetheless determination, energy and initiative, plus the aid of immediate co-workers, could circumvent such malefic inroads.

For the Birthday.

Those whose birthday it is, are urged to a determined marshalling of the forces, faculties and well-developed plans, in order to frustrate certain opposing factors bent on pulling the props from under an exceptionally ambitious plan or project. A campaign of misrepresentation, slander, or concerted effort at undermining certain worthwhile propositions is possible. Initiative, sound ideas and good sense, with a modicum of good humor, might have power to break down this onslaught, but take no chances. The end-product of a show of energy, executive ability and good judgment might be a worthwhile promotion.

A child born on this day should possess practical ability, sound ideas and good judgment for overcoming opposition and want of help from influential sources.

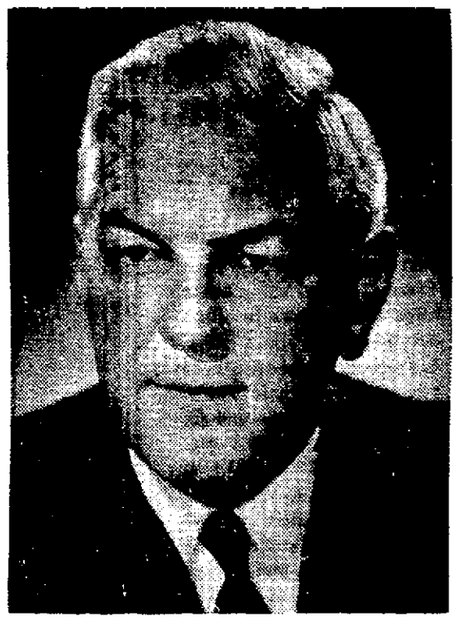
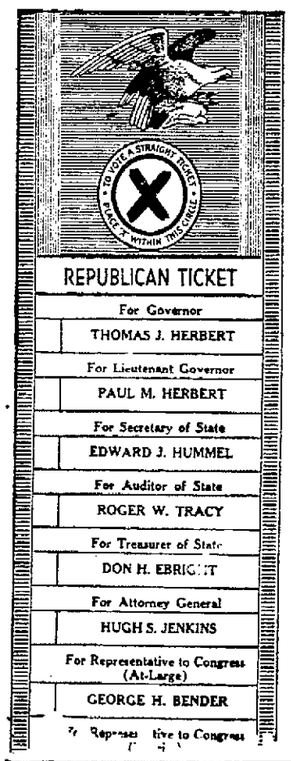
his record merits your vote for re-election



Governor Thomas J. Herbert

STATE BALLOT



Thomas J. Herbert, who became Ohio's governor two years ago, believes his job calls for serving the people by deeds — not by seeking cheap publicity. Consider his actual record and you will want him to serve again.

Every department under Tom Herbert's control was improved and activated every obligation of the state was met. Yet despite high prices on everything the state buys, he asked for lowered taxes, not increased taxes. At his request, the legislature reduced several state taxes including the sales tax. World War II bonus payments are largely being financed through the treasury surplus, instead of by levying a special tax. Tom Herbert consistently saved tax money.

During his administration, state welfare institutions received aid long needed. Facilities for treating tuberculosis have been enlarged. Old age pensions, aid to mental hospitals and to the blind, have all been increased. Teachers and public schools received an adequate appropriation for the first time in years.

Highways are being rapidly improved. Strip mining legislation has at last been enacted. Relinquishment of certain tax fields has given financial relief to distressed local governments. Tom Herbert gave the public more. Tom Herbert serves no favored class. He defends the rights of the entire people. When strikers defied constitutional law, he did his duty without political pussyfooting. At his command, state troops restored law and order.

By actions, not words, Governor Herbert has earned the right to re-election. Vote for him and for the other Republican candidates on the ballot with him.

Ohio's Corn Sets Record

COLUMBUS —(INS)— It will be an all-time record corn crop for Ohio this year — 208,449,000 bushels.

With the corn now safely matured past the point where frost might do some damage, the federal-state crop reporting service estimated that the yield per acre will be 16 bushels higher this year than in 1947.

The prediction was 57 bushels per acre in view of the favorable weather conditions in the month of September.

Present stocks of farm corn remaining from last year are estimated at only 5,716,000 bushels, or 36 per cent of the entire stocks last fall.

A more normal trend is indicated in wheat this year. Wheat stocks on Ohio's farms are almost the same as they were when the survey was taken last year Then stocks were listed at 21,177,000 bushels.

The report showed milk production behind last year at this time by 6,000,000 gallons. Figures showed only 452,000,000 gallons of milk for the month of September

Egg production was up over last year, soybeans had a slight edge on the 1947 crop of 17,575,000 bushels and oats doubled last year's production figures with a 52,888,000 bushel crop.

Defense of Europe Difficult

While there is general agreement in this country that the defense of western Europe is a vital interest of the United States, the question of ways and means presents many difficult, though not necessarily insoluble, problems

The real situation was defined authoritatively a few days ago by the deputy army chief of staff, General Collins, when he said in an address at St Louis that the manpower and industrial potential of the Western Europeans "is still great . . . and with worldwide co-operation, there is a daily increase in their strength to defend themselves . . . At the moment, however, their domestic problems are so great that their military potential is near an all-time low"

It follows from this that the development of adequate military power will take time At best one cannot count on much less than two years Even if we suppose that Congress were called into special session right after election in order to ratify an alliance, to authorize and appropriate for military lend-lease and to impose the industrial controls needed to manufacture the munitions and equipment, time would have to pass before European continental armies existed which could fight an effective holding operation between the Elbe and the Rhine.

During the period of preparation the defense of western Europe would depend, as it does today, not upon our ability to hold the Red army but upon our ability to deter the Kremlin from ordering it to march The crucial question is whether the deterrent effect of American air and sea power would be sufficient, or can be made sufficient, to meet the additional strain that would be created by serious measures to arm western Europe.

We must not underestimate the additional strain As things are now there is a real though precarious balance of power which preserves the peace Our ability to devastate the Russian cities is balanced by the Red Army's ability to overrun the cities of western Europe

But if effective measures were taken and completed to arm western Europe, the balance of power would have turned radically against the Russians. Their cities would still be vulnerable to the atomic bomb, the Western cities would be secure against the Russian infantry.

The period when western Europe was arming—but not yet effectively armed—would inevitably be one of extreme danger The bitterness of the Russian reaction to the economic Marshall plan has been considerable; against a military Marshall plan it would surely be even more violent, especially if the formation of a western German government were followed, as many who sponsor it intend, by the recreation of the German army.

During this ultimately critical period, our problem would be how to defend western Europe while it is being organized to defend itself The basic strategy of containing the Red Army at the Elbe by the threat of retaliation inside Russia might not be sufficient In any event the continental Europeans would not believe it was sufficient Additional measures would have to be taken at once, with the forces we can soon make available, to barricade western Europe

The question, then, arises as to whether diplomacy and statesmanship might resolve the dilemma of how Europe is to be defended during the dangerous period while it is being organized to defend itself It is, I think, at least conceivable that this could be done

The essence of the problem is to convince the Kremlin, first, that it would be exceedingly dangerous to invade western Europe and, second, that the arming of western Europe is in fact defensive On the first point, there is no need to wait for several months to debate and ratify a military alliance It would be useful to have an explicit declaration now, supported by Mr. Dewey, that any advance beyond the armistice lines would be an act of war against the United States. That declaration could be confirmed later by treaty But it should be made now

Derides Frankfurter's 'Modest' Claims Before Senate Committee

NEW YORK—After Felix Frankfurter and his claque and clique of happy hot dogs had lobbied through his nomination for the Supreme Court where he could give direct force to his extraordinary deference to public opinion in Russia under Trotsky the butcher, he was "invited" down to Washington to tell the Senate Judiciary committee about himself.

"I, of course, do not wish to testify in support of my own nomination," said the modest little fellow who was to push his man, Stimson, into the War department and his man, Alger Hiss, into the State department, which sent him to Yalta to sit with Roosevelt and Stalin when they turned out the light on godly civilization.

Frankfurter thought it would be improper of a nominee to express personal views on controversial issues, having said which, he bashfully showered himself with new-mown laurel. His own great virtue was a non-controversial topic, of course.

He was an effective, if not too subtle, name-dropper and said he had "served under President (Theodore) Roosevelt and happened to enjoy as thousands of others did, his very kind and encouraging friendship . . . I was devoted to him. He inspired a sense of civic service within me as he did within so many other young men."

★

By way of expression of his great trust in the honor and character of Frankfurter, T. R. had written him that his report to President Wilson on the Bisbee deportation was "as thoroughly misleading a document as could be written on the subject."

Frankfurter had told Wilson that his report was "a candid and just statement," but not once did it even mention the Industrial Workers of the World, a band of anarchists who created such terror in Bisbee that the deportation was ordered by the sheriff to prevent violent insurrection.

Frankfurter taught administrative law, a special course, at Harvard Law school from 1914 to 1939. He was succeeded by James M. Landis, another of the happy hot dogs, who promoted "unity" with Russian public opinion by deciding that Harry Bridges was not a communist.

Landis served from 1939 to 1946. During his term as member and chairman of the Securities Exchange commission in Washington, 1934-37, Carol King, a she-lawyer, who has served Bridges and many others of his type and worse, as counsel, was appointed by the commission to serve as a lawyer and investigator.

She has a record as the defender of accused communists in the files of the Dies and Thomas committees as long as your arm. The associate of today not infrequently finds himself—or herself—pleading a case before an old friend tomorrow in the exciting life of New Deal lawyers in Washington.

★

Milton Katz is the present occupant of the Byrne chair at Harvard Law which was vacated by Frankfurter and Landis. He was originally an anthropologist but was graduated from Harvard Law in 1931. He is now on leave from Harvard law to serve as general counsel of the European Recovery administration. Landis and Katz were pupils and proteges of Frankfurter. Katz was picked to guarantee that neither unfairness, favoritism nor prejudice should sully the administration. The Frankfurter tradition would tend to fortify a man against those weaknesses. Good thing, too. Reassuring.

Influence With Dulles Blamed For Release of Nazi Ilse Koch

The strange case of Isle Koch's soon-due freedom (she's the one who allegedly had Hitler victims killed to make lamp shades of their tattooed skin) is traced to "great influence behind the scenes. John Foster Dulles, who is reported high on the list of candidates for Gov. Dewey's Secretary of State (if Dewey is elected) has interested himself in forwarding evidence tending to prove that injustice may have been done to accused war criminals.

Mr. Dulles wrote a letter to Secretary of State Marshall forwarding a letter from a German in Shanghai in behalf of a top Nazi, named Baron Jesco von Puttkamer . . . Puttkamer was chief of the German High Command Psychological Warfare in the Auslands during the war . . . This Prussian was public relations chief for all of I. G. Farben before the war.

Germany at the time could not wage psychological warfare conveniently from Berlin, locked inside Nazi boundaries . . . That's why he was sneaked to the International Settlement of Shanghai (listening post of the world) before the outbreak of hostilities . . . Baron von Puttkamer was more important than Goebbels during the war years . . . This Puttkamer plastered posters all over Jap-occupied China, showing a wounded Chinese grandmother (with the rest of the family maimed and dead) in the ruins of their accidentally American - bombed home . . . And all the poster said was: "Who Did This To You?"

★

Three American pilots (who bombed Jap concentrations in Hankow) accidentally killed some Chinese . . . Our pilots who were shot down—were roped around the neck and paraded through Hankow streets from the rear end of a truck . . . Inspired by Japs and Germans (Germans educated the Japs in black propaganda tricks), Chinese citizens of the Occupied Zone threw rocks and nightsoil and clubbed the U.S. pilots . . . When they could walk no longer the truck continued parading, dragging the pilots along the streets on the end of the ropes . . . Finally, they were dragged to the city incinerator, thrown into it, and cremated alive. . . .

That was a sample of Baron von Puttkamer's war effort.

This con Puttkamer (after great detective work) was traced and tried . . . He got 30 years at hard labor . . . He is now in Landsberg Prison . . . His hard labor ??? . . . He is prison librarian, complete with typewriter.

★

Later, he got a powerful Shanghai minister to write to John Foster Dulles . . . Like those who think Ilse Koch has been treated unjustly by vengeful Americans (without probing or even asking for some American to supply the other side of the story) Dulles forwarded the minister's plea for the Baron to Gen. Marshall, plus his own letter, which absolves him (Dulles) of entanglement but indicates that the writer and the evidence should be investigated.

On the letterhead of The Commission On a Just and Durable Peace (297 Fourth Ave., N. Y.,) on Oct. 11th, 1946, Mr. Dulles wrote:

"The Honorable Secretary of State, Washington: Sir: As Chairman of this Commission I have received two communications . . . dealing with the trial of Germans at Shanghai as war criminals. I have no basis for the independent judgment as to the facts reported. But it is my deep concern, which I am sure the State Department shares, that in these matters justice rather than vengeance should be done. I am, respectfully, John Foster Dulles."

This kind of offhand application to Gen. Marshall may give up trouble—since many Nazis behind bars are being released and hundreds are appealing to our highest court . . . They are selling some influential Americans the idea that they were right all the time in waging war against Russia . . . Robert Best (the American traitor), for instance. He was recently convicted for treason in Boston Federal Court . . . That was his argument.

2,979 Area Vets Take Training

350 Attend Kenyon, Ashland Colleges

A total of 2,979 World War II veterans are currently taking advantage of educational and job-training benefits under the supervision of the Mansfield office of the Veterans Administration, G. D. Weidemaier, manager of the local office, reported today.

Kenyon college and Ashland college, the only institutions of higher learning under the jurisdiction of the local VA office, claim a total of 350 GI students. In other schools over the 10-county area, 424 veteran students are enrolled.

A report from the Cleveland regional office of the Veterans' Administration gave the total number of veterans in 38 counties of northern Ohio participating in education and job-training programs as 41,040.

Police Join Hunt For Boy

Police today sent out a general alarm for Donald Currens, 12, of 196 West Fifth street, reported missing from his home about 11 p. m. yesterday by his father, A. W. Currens.

Currens said his son left home at 7:45 a. m. yesterday for school and did not return. The father said he believed his son may have left town in the company of other boys. However, police had no other reports of missing children.

The Currens youth was described as five feet tall, with brown hair, blue eyes, and fair complexion, and wearing brown trousers, shoes and coat.

When Hard Luck Strikes

Hospital Bureau Gives Timely Help

Very few people can boast that they have not at one time or another had a streak of hard luck, but one Mansfield factory worker is certain that all the elements of misfortune were putting in overtime work when they decided to pay his family a visit.

He was what factory officials term "a steady worker," he had just made the down payment on a small home, not exactly what his family had planned when they envisioned their dream home, but with some repairs, a small addition and some paint, he thought it could be made comfortable.

Then the transportation question arose, and a local used car lot produced a car, not a recent model but one which would transport him daily back and forth to work. This, too, was managed with a small down payment.

There his luck suddenly changed. There were still monthly payments to be made to a hospital for the caesarian birth of their youngest child, not yet a year old, when their second youngest child was sent to Mansfield General hospital for a tonsillectomy. Three days later the same youngster suffered an attack of appendicitis and was rushed back to the hospital for an emergency operation.

There was hospitalization insurance at the factory, but it wasn't enough to cover all the hospital bills. During this period the father was involved in an accident for which he was not to blame and the car was totally wrecked. The monthly payments, however, had to be continued even though the car was junked.

FINDS HELP

One morning, when the temperature hovered around the zero mark, after a sleepless night in which no solution was found to his financial problems, he started to walk to Mansfield, a distance of nearly four miles. Here he visited the office of the Hospital bureau and recounted his troubles to the investigator.

His income at this time amounted to $180 a month in take-home pay. Actual living costs, including payments on the home, the car, a few back bills, and day-to-day expenses amounted to $175.

Realizing that this was a case which really deserved help Hospital Bureau officials paid the balance on the hospital bills beyond that amount paid by his hospitalization insurance.

This is only one family which has been helped through an emergency by the Hospital Bureau, whose function is to pay hospital bills for those people who are able to take care of all daily living expenses, but cannot afford a large hospital bill.

The bureau does not pay doctor bills, its only financial assistance being on hospital bills for people who are not eligible for public relief, William F. Bell, president of the bureau and representative of Mansfield labor groups, explained.

TRAGIC STORY

The death of their first baby brought a young married couple, both in their early twenties, to the attention of the Hospital Bureau. The infant had died in General hospital after a short illness. The parents' savings were just adequate to pay the maternity fee. A local undertaker provided burial services free of charge, but the hospital bill for the baby's confinement was unpaid. The Hospital Bureau came to their aid.

During pregnancy, the mother had developed a serious heart condition which became worse after the baby's death. Three times she was a patient at General hospital, but each time, through careful management, the couple managed to have the money for payment. A month after her last release she was again returned to the hospital where she died.

By this time the young husband was without money, so the Hospital Bureau once more helped him through his troubles.

A recent case which has caused a great deal of comment in Mansfield, was a large family, which was turned down by the Bureau when it applied for payment of their hospital bills. A thorough check of the family's financial status revealed that the father by working at two different jobs was receiving a take-home pay of $424 per month. Case investigators decided that even though there were five children in the family, by more careful management of the family's finances, which in the past had included the purchase of a number of luxuries, arrangements could be made whereby past-due hospital bills could be paid by the father and the family might be able to readjust its own difficulties.

Assisting Mr. Bell in administering affairs of the Hospital Bureau are Frend C. Boals, representing the city; Miss Veronica Hanley, a representative of the Catholic church; Mrs. Jane Williams, executive secretary of the Mansfield Community Chest; Mrs. Lovelna Gastor of Mansfield General hospital, and Robert Myers, representing Industria management.

The Hospital Bureau is a Red Feather agency of the Mansfield Community Chest which opens its annual drive for funds on Monday, Oct. 18.

Keeping a patient cheerful and comfortable is one of the main problems of the hospital nursing staff, but payment for hospital services usually falls on the shoulder of the family's bread-winner, and most times he is not prepared for such an emergency. In cases where assistance is needed, it's the Hospital Bureau of the Mansfield Community Chest which comes to his aid. The Bureau, an agency of the Mansfield Community Chest, offers aid to people who are not eligible for public relief.

Rites Set For Mrs. Meihack

Rev. David N. Roller, pastor of the First Presbyterian church, of which Mrs. Meihack was a member, will officiate and burial will be in the Mansfield cemetery.

Born in Chicago, April 15, 1896, the daughter of J. L and the late Nellie Kaufmann Lewis, Mrs. Meihack came to Mansfield in 1930 and had resided here since that time. She was president of the Nomad club, a member of the Johnny Appleseed Garden club and active both in club and church circles in the city.

Surviving, besides her husband, are four daughters, Mrs. Arden Miller of Boston, Miss Mary Meihack, a senior at Oberlin college, Joan, student at the Flora Stone Mather college of Cleveland, and Elizabeth at home and her father, J. L. Lewis of Mansfield.

Milk Output Gains

John L. Wilson, Agriculture department dairy statistician, said the steady decline in the number of dairy cows prevailing since 1944 will stop next year.

Must Give Up Old Rooms

Judge To Try Revised Plan

An attempt to set up juvenile detention homes in residences was begun today by Juvenile Judge Stuart H. Cramer.

The detention home now is in the Salvation Army post, but that organization has served notice on juvenile court and the county commissioners that the detention home there will not be available after Dec. 31. The Salvation Army board said the rooms were needed for expansion of Salvation Army activities.

Judge Cramer asked that persons interested in providing rooms in their homes for the purpose contact him at his office. Two homes would be set up—one for boys and another for girls.

The judge said the set-up "would not convert a home into a jail." He pointed out that the "bad actor" types—over 14 years old—are held in jail juvenile cells.

The detention home is for children under 18. The set-up does not require barred windows, and the family would be paid for the rooms and their services, the judge said. They would be paid for food on the basis of meals eaten by the children, he said.

Someone would have to be at home at all reasonable hours, the judge said. He added that the children could live with the family, subject to rules laid down by the court and the matron of the detention home.

He said if the behavior of the detained child warrants his participation in the family life of the home, that would be encouraged.

The home for boys would require two rooms as would the home for girls, the judge said.

State Sues Bond Firms

COLUMBUS—(INS—The state of Ohio filed suit yesterday against 14 bonding companies to collect on 20 bonds of $1,000 each underwritten for allegedly bogus private clubs whose permits were revoked by the State Liquor Board.

The suits were filed by Atty. General Hugh S. Jenkins in the Franklin county common pleas court on behalf of the Department of Liquor Control.

Assistant Atty. Gen. Jack Walsh said the suits were representative of 113 cases resulting from the issuance of a flood of D4, or private club, permits in the closing days of the administration of former Gov. Frank J. Lausche.

The bonding companies had insured the truthfulness of the statements contained in the affidavits filed by the permit applicants. Said Walsh:

"If the clubs were phony, the applications were phony. Therefore, the bonds are forfeit."

Firemen Let Homes Burn

SPRINGFIELD — (AP) — Despite threats and protests of an angry crowd of residents, two Springfield fire companies stopped at the city limits and let two houses 200 feet away burn down.

Ohio fire departments may leave their cities only if the owner of the burning building has made a contract with the city and has posted bond to cover possible injury to firemen.

Officials said neither of the two owners, James K. Dyer and Mrs. Mildred White, had such contracts.

Mrs. Kasenkina's Story—No. 19

Rumor of Returning To Russia Crops Up

By OKSANA S. KASENKINA
Edited By Isaac Don Levine

The prospect of leaving America filled me with dread when rumors began to circulate in our midst early in 1948 that the diplomatic schools abroad would be closed at the end of the term.

Although I was an inmate of an invisible prison in the United States, I fondled the hope of sharing in the fairyland life which throbbed around me. To go back to the dreariness and terror of Soviet reality when a free and abundant existence lay within reach was an unbearable thought.

Moreover, I never abandoned hope that my missing son might turn up among the Russian DPs in western Europe as so many have. The possibility that my Oleg was taken prisoner by the Germans and was still alive is something which I cannot dismiss to this day.

I was also secretly thinking of my sister Eugenia in England whom I had not seen in 10 years. No one in the Soviet colony in America knew that I had a close relative in a capitalist country. I did not even dare to communicate with her during the two years of my residence outside of Russia. Being under surveillance I was afraid that the discovery of correspondence with my sister would make me guilty of contact with an "enemy of the people."

The grand master of the Great Purge, Andrei Vishinsky, was in New York attending the sessions of the United Nations, and we all felt his presence. I found myself seated only a few feet away from him at a reception held in the Soviet consulate on the anniversary celebration of the Red Army. The bigwigs were exchanging toasts, and Vishinsky was reminiscing. I was chilled to the bone.

The image of my husband Demyan who fell in the blood bath which this man had ministered hovered before me. My hands trembled. With the greatest difficulty I restrained myself from rising and crying out: "Son of Cain, what have you done to the Russian people?"

PUPILS HAVE DOUBTS

Instead I sat and listened to the nauseating glorification of 'our great Stalin' of "the all-wise leader of the proletariat the incomparable Stalin." It was the same tune on which we harped continuously in our schools. But the American atmosphere had had some effect on the more advanced students in my classes. Not all of them were swallowing indiscriminately the party line with its infallibility of Stalin's leadership.

RUNS RED BLOCKADE—Fast talk and a few candy bars have been compounded into an effective formula for piercing the Soviet land blockade of Berlin by U. S. Air Force S Sgt. Ralph M. Felling of McCook, Neb. The sergeant claimed the honor of being the first western soldier to get through when he drove his automobile through the Russian checkpoint at Marienborn, on autobahn to Berlin.

Every now and then I would observe an ironic smile or hear an expression of disbelief when I held forth according to my rigid instructions. Being a botanist, I could not avoid dealing with the controversy of the Lysenko-Michurin theory on heredity which was rending the Soviet academic world and reverberating across the oceans. With the backing of Stalin, the Lysenko school of biology introduced a revision of Darwin's great doctrine of the origin of life.

Lysenko claimed to have discovered a new law of genetics or heredity, as illustrated by his ability to transform winter wheat so as to make it suitable for cultivation as far north as the polar circle. Since the greater part of Russia lies north of the line suitable for agriculture, this claim is of immense importance to my country. But one of my students, the 19-year-old Trofimov, when he heard me say of Lysenko's claim "it would seem as if he has transformed the breeding of plants," dropped the remark:

"And why as if?"

On another occasion the son of Gromyko spoke his mind. It was during a discussion of the various racial theories. I maintained that it had been scientifically demonstrated that Negroes were on the same level of intellectual development as the other races. The young Grompko uttered one word: "Polozhim—you've got to show me."

MEETS U. S. TEACHERS

That such heretical ideas were infecting the minds of the Soviet youth abroad was unquestionably known to the authorities, for each school has its own espionage net operater by members of the Komsomol. This was undoubtedly a factor in the order from Moscow to discontinue the foreign schools. Another consideration was, according to rumor, the drain upon the foreign exchange of the Soviet treasury.

As the weeks passed, I was looking about for some contact with the free world which I was eyeing so longingly. But I learned again how deep was the chasm which separated me from American life on March 8, 1948, Soviet Woman's day. There was a reception in the Soviet consulate, which a group of about 20 American teachers attended.

The presence of these guests who were obviously all either communists or ardent Soviet admirers made me feel more lonely than ever. The thought that not one of these American colleagues understood what was going on in our hearts or knew the truth about the life of a Soviet teacher was crushing. Not one of them offered the promise of mutual understanding. It was as if the iron curtain cut into my very being.

I left the reception in a state of despondency, rushed to my room, shut the door behind me, and cried until I fell asleep exhausted. I was awakened by a bang on the door. It was Zoya Porojniakova, who had been sent from the consulate to check on me when my absence was discovered. I decided not to respond to her knocks.

FEIGNS SLEEP

"If Zoya wants to find out whether I am sick," I reasoned, "she will stop knocking soon so not to wake me up. But if it is an NKVD assignment she'll keep it up."

For an hour and a half Zoya kept pounding the door, calling me. I was determined to feign sleep. "I won't open, I won't open," I kept saying to myself. In the morning Zoya never said a word to me about her seige the night before. I, too, passed it in silence.

From this moment on the surveillance over me was intensified. My conduct at the consulate reception, with the closing of the school at the end of the term already scheduled, made me especially suspect. The NKVD's foreign staff is ever on the alert for possible defections.

Senior High Wary of Springfield Team

Wildcat 11 Wins Only 1 Of 3 Games

Will history repeat itself? That's the question Mansfield Senior high school football fans are asking as the Tygers finish up their drills for their battle with the big, bruising Springfield Wildcats tomorrow night at Springfield

The Tygers of Coach Augie Morningstar have not been beaten by an Ohio team and are rated sixth in the state while Springfield has won only one of four games An identical situation existed last season when the two schools collided in Arlin field

The surprising result of that meeting is still picture clear in the minds of the Bengal fans and of course the team Springfield pounced all over Senior high and walked off with a 32 to 6 victory

NEVER IN GAME

Senior high was never in that game Springfield rolled up a 19 to 0 margin at the half and still led 32 0 with less than a minute remaining Little Tommy Tucker swept end from the 20 for the Tygers only score after a pass put them in position

Springfield's veteran team rolled up 11 first downs 377 yards from scrimmage and 41 in the air In the same departments the Bengals had eight 130 and 52

Morningstar worked his Bengals hard this week on the offensive and defensive patterns he will throw at the Wildcats Springfield uses the single wing, a formation that has befuddled the Bengals every time they have come up against it

After yesterday's strenuous workout Morningstar wore a perturbed look He wryly admitted the Bengals were on the upgrade but

All I can think about is last year's game where Springfield had us in the same spot That's what has me worried

GO THROUGH PACES

All the Bengal regulars went through their paces yesterday except George Monk Russell the first line center Russell has not seen any action this year and Morningstar still doesn't know when he will rejoin the squad

Clive Rush and Fred Pearl are the fellows Senior high will have to watch tomorrow Just as last year the two 180 plus lads are the kingpins of the Springfield attack Operating behind the giant Springfield line Rush a senior has six touchdowns while Pearl a junior, has three and two extra points

Last year Rush scored twice against the Bengals while running up 16 carries Veteran Johnny Dilliam scored once while going 59 yards on seven tries Pearl had 76 yards from scrimmage and Joe Powers 35 However, Dilliam was hurt against Middletown and will miss tomorrow's tilt He's a 170 pound junior

Powers plays quarter Pearl and Bob Sheets are the halfs and Rush goes at full Pearl and Sheets started last year while the other saw relief service

SIX ON LINE

Coach Jim McDonald the former Ohio State football great also has six lettermen on the forward wall None started last year against the Tygers but Don Thomas and Charles Hoy guards were in there part of the time Thomas a 181 pounder, has copped two letters

Roger Downey the 170 pound center won a letter in 1945 He spent 20 months in the Marines and will be 20 Nov 4

Jack Grant 228 pound junior tackle is the biggest man on the Springfield line which averages better than 180 pounds

McDonald has one of Ohio's finest feeder systems and is building for next year Springfield has five junior high schools moving talent into the Wildcat program The present 48 man squad has 21 juniors 13 sophomores and 11 seniors

Rush Thomas and Downey are the only seniors on the Wildcat starting team All the rest are juniors

The Springfield passing is taken care of by Pearl and Powers Both have thrown for touchdowns Rush and Don DeJong, 6 3 180 pound end are the top pass receivers

Senior high was scheduled to go through a light drill today and attend the Ohio theater tonight The 55 man varsity squad will leave for Springfield at 11 a m Friday

NEW 'QUARTERBACK'—Former West Point All-American fullback Lt Felix (Doc) Blanchard has a new "quarterback" calling signals now. She is Mrs. Blanchard the former Miss Jody King of San Antonio, Tex The pair said their "I dos" at the home of the bride's parents "Doc" received his wings last Friday

Massillon and Alliance Battle In Top Contest

By JOHN BARRINGTON INS Sports Writer

The chips are down in Ohio's high school football lottery

Estimates of comparative strength may undergo a severe shaking up by the time the weekend's gridiron plums have become history

Going down the line of the top-ranking contenders for the mythical state championship probably none have a tougher assignment than Massillon the current No 1 eleven

Coach Chuck Mather must get his Tigers up for the second major opponent in a row Alliance Both the Aviators and the Tigers have won four straight games Mel Knowlton the Alliance mentor is a former Massillon coach

Canton McKinley and Toledo Scott clash at Canton in another battle of unbeaten teams The game also will feature an individual duel between McKinley's Colcen who has scored 96 points to date and Scott's little Porter King who has 79

ONE FROM TEXAS

Toledo Waite adds an interesectional sidelight to the schedule by entertaining Austin Tex The Texans reciprocating last year's visit by Waite to the Lone Star state will make the 2 300 mile trip by special train accompanied by their 140-piece cowboy band

Waite ranked third behind Massillon and McKinley in this week's INS poll of experts has won four straight games this year

Hamilton's potent Big Blue discontented with its present fourth place ranking will have a worthy opponent in Cincinnati Hughes

Middletown tied once but undefeated in five games invades Steubenville where the Big Red will be on the rebound after last week's bitterly contested loss to Massillon The Stubers will be looking at one of the state's finest leather-luggers in the person of Halfback Babe Calhoun of the Middies

NO EXTENDING

Ironton which hasn't been extended in its three games so far plays Ashland Ky high school

The top battle in Cincinnati pits unbeaten Withrow against a Purcell eleven that handed Western Hills its first loss a week ago In Columbus West seeks to extend its two-year unbeaten string against a dangerous Central foe Two undefeated parochial teams tangle in Akron St Vincent's and St Mary's

Fremont expects little trouble registering its fifth in a row at Sandusky and Martins Ferry steps out of the state to play Triadelphia W Va

Turner Hired For New York Coaching Job

NEW YORK – (INS) Coach Charlie Dressen remained the sole survivor today of the Larry MacPhail regime of the baseball Yankees

Manager Casey Stengel yesterday appointed former big leaguer Jim Turner to a 1949 coaching staff, replacing John 'Red' Corriden

Corriden and Dressen gave up coaching jobs at Brooklyn in 1944 when MacPhail bought into the Yankee franchise MacPhail also brought in as manager, Bucky Harris who recently resigned under pressure

Dressen's status has not yet been determined Reportedly the highest paid coach in the game at $20 000 per annum Dressen still has another year to go on his contract

Turner is no stranger to Stengel or to the Yankees After 14 years in the minors Turner joined the Stengel-managed Boston Braves as a 33-year-old rookie in 1937 and won 20 games

The strong right-hander switched to relief work and soon afterward helped Cincinnati to win the 1940 pennant He joined the Yankees in 1942 and remained as a hurler through 1945 Turner then joined the Yankee farm system as manager of the Beaumont team in the Texas league

The Yankees transferred him to Portland of the Pacific Coast league where he has managed the past two seasons

Funston's 639 Series Tops City A

Light Loudonville Has Speed to Burn

The Madison-Loudonville high school football game set for Ram field tomorrow night will be a battle of speed against power as both teams fight to keep undefeated records intact

Madison big and powerful in the line will be up against much the same setup which it faced two weeks ago at Orrville Loudonville's line averages only 155 pounds and its offense is built on plays around and over the line not through it

Along with being light in weight a majority of the Redmen are light in experience Only four seniors are in the starting lineup and only two of these were regulars last year Right half Gerald Coven the heaviest backfield man at 157 and fullback Bill Porter 153 pounds were both starters last year

ONLY SENIORS

All others are underclassmen except left tackle Bob Workman and right tackle and captain Dick Pinkley Pinkley the runt of the outfit weighs only 132

Loudonville's attack is primarily on the ground although quarterback Bill Foster can throw a mean pass on occasion The capabilities of Foster and his backfield mates is evidenced by the fact that they run plays from both the T and single wing formation All four backs carry the ball

Elmer Boyer in his seventh year as coach of the Red Birds bemoans the lack of capable replacements which he says is his team's weakest spot

Madison is also handicapped in this way but Coach Ennis Walker has been attempting to offset it somewhat by teaching some of the boys to work at several positions

DEFEATED TEAMS

Loudonville has beaten Fredericktown Utica New London and Danville with little trouble in previous games however none of the teams presented the size which Madison will show the invaders

Madison won from New London Newcomerstown and Rittman and was trailing 19-12 at Orrville when the lights failed

An elaborate half-time program has been planned for the homecoming Bands of both schools will take part

Tickets for the game are on sale at Madison and at the Fox jewelry store

ACE PASSER — Bill Foster, quarterback of the Loudonville Red Birds, cocks his strong right arm to throw one of the aerials which he will toss against Madison here Friday night Foster, who weighs only 136 pounds, calls signals for plays from both the "T" and single wing formations

Ohio State Hospital List Slims

COLUMBUS—(AP)—Coach Wesley Fesler is slowly whittling down the hospital list on the Ohio State football team and any day now can field all the people he'd like to.

Yesterday he had all seven of his wingbacks busy on the practice field And despite what he thought was the best scrimmage of the season nobody was hurt

Alex Verdova of Lakewood first string wing is still nursing an old side injury and may not start against Indiana at Bloomington Saturday but he got around all right in the scrimmage

AUTOMATIC SUB

Fesler who has had four of his wingbacks in drydock at one time, moved Billy Newell of Columbiana to the spot just to be on the safe side Newell will continue as an automatic substitute for Joe Whisler of Willard on defense

Fesler said he wasn't sure who would start at left guard and right tackle Saturday Ray Dipierro of Toledo the regular guard, and Jack Wilson of Xenia the regular tackle are still limping and did not get into the scrimmage George Mattey of Cleveland may start for Dipierro and Bill Trautwein of Athens for Wilson

Either Trautwein or substitute right tackle Brent Kirk of New Philadelphia is expected to kick off Jack Dawson of Toledo the regular kick-off man is being left home to play tackle with the junior varsity in its Friday game against Purdue's JV.
